

European Association for American Studies

Biennial Conference

The Health

Ege University, Izmir, TURKEY

March 30 - April 2

Marble relief of Asclepius, the "God of Health," and his daughter Hygieia (Pergamon, Izmir), end of the 5th century BC. Istanbul Archaeological Museum.

the relation between health and wealth... the health of the individual and the health of the state; the politics and economics of healthcare... the legal and constitutional dimensions of healthcare provision; the body's health in literature and film... the relation between health and healing... illness as metaphor... health and the environment... the ideals of health communicated by the media...

The Health

the relation between health and wealth... the health of the individual and the health of the state; the politics and economics of healthcare... the legal and constitutional dimensions of healthcare provision; the body's health in literature and film... the relation between health and healing... illness as metaphor... health and the environment... the ideals of health communicated by the media... the relation between health and wealth... the health of the individual and the health of the state; the politics and economics of healthcare... the legal and constitutional dimensions of healthcare provision; the body's health in literature and film... the relation between health and healing... illness as metaphor... health and the environment... the ideals of health communicated by the media... the relation between health and wealth... the health of the individual and the health of the state; the politics and economics of healthcare... the legal and constitutional dimensions of healthcare provision; the body's health in literature and film... the relation between health and healing... illness as metaphor... health and the environment... the ideals of health communicated by the media... The first wealth is health...

Thomas Jefferson, letter to John Garland Jefferson, June 11, 1790

Organizing Secretariat

DEKON
CONGRESS & TOURISM

www.dekon.com.tr